

András G. Benedek, PhD, CSc, (Budapest, 1956) works in the field of Learning Sciences and Dynamic Epistemic Logic as senior research fellow of the Institute of Philosophy at the Research Centre for the Humanities, Hungarian Academy of Sciences. As former head of the Department of Logic, Pázmány Péter Catholic University he directed DE Program Development at the Faculty of Law and Political Sciences and worked as director of e-Didactic Knowledge Center of LSI Information Technology Learning Center. In addition to several Hungarian universities he taught at the St. Johns University, in Summer Schools of the Central European University and in the international program of the Budapest Semesters in Mathematics. He was a post-doctoral research fellow at The Queen's College, Oxford, and the London School of Economics (Lakatos Foundation) university scholar at the University of Notre Dame (Indiana), research fellow at the Catholic University of America (Washington, D.C., Centre for the Study of Culture and Values, RVP) visiting scholar at the University of Illinois at Chicago. Participated in researches of the Hungarian Scientific Research Fund, was coordinator of various EU projects as international advisor of APERTUS Public Foundation. He was responsible for e-content and program development as Director of Education of EDUWEB PLC. He was Science Director of the Mobil Multimedia based Knowledge Transfer project in the framework of the Economic Development Operative Program of the New Hungary Development Plan and research scientist of several government funded R&D projects.